

A Legacy Off-Grid Compound in the North Maine Woods

Own Your Private Piece of Maine History

Buckhorn Camps is a one-of-a-kind wilderness compound on Jo-Mary Island, a 332-acre undeveloped island located in the Katahdin Region of Maine.

- 6.4 deeded acres on private island
- 3,300 ft of lake frontage on Middle & Lower Jo-Mary Lakes
- 11 buildings including 4-bedroom 2.5 bath lodge
- New solar system
- Starlink (high speed internet in main lodge)
- Registered seaplane base
- Turnkey package available
- $1,100,000

Location

T4 Indian Purchase Township, Maine

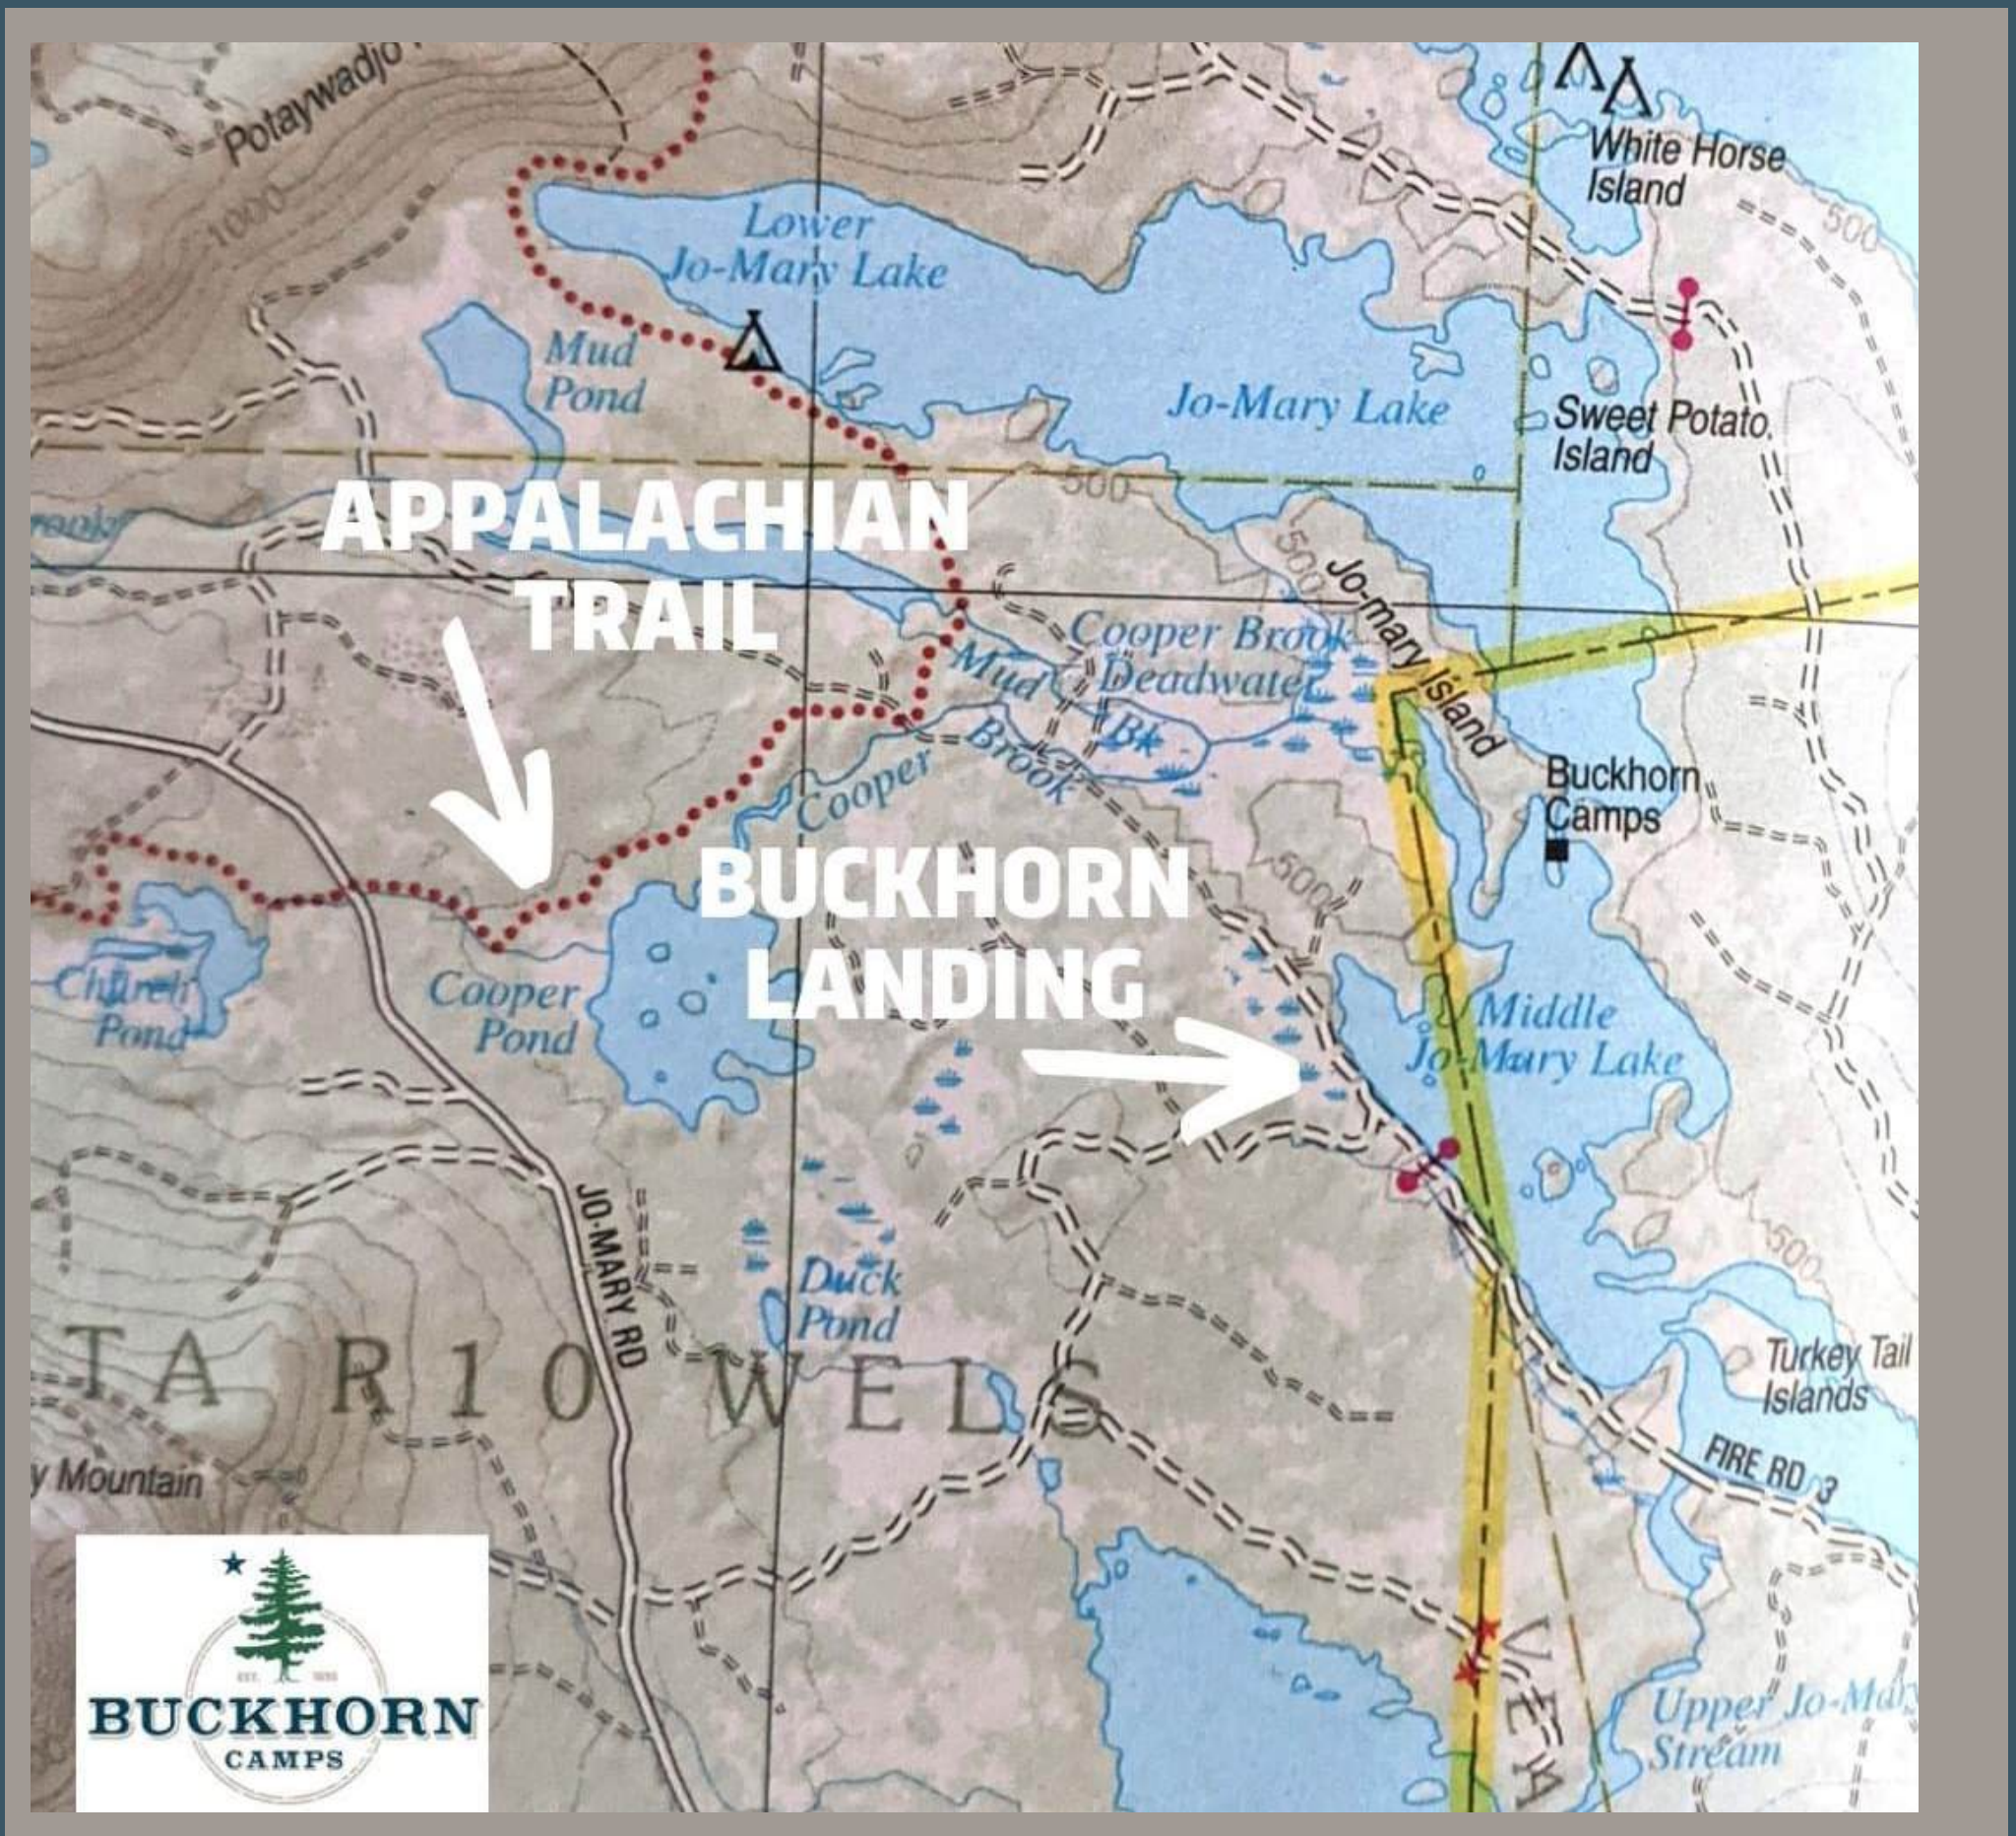

GPS Coordinates:

Lat: 45.6548° N | Long: -68.9473° W

Deeded access:

Via North Maine Woods road system
+ boat landing

Also accessible via plane + snowmobile

An aerial photograph of a large lake with several forested islands. In the lower right, a small island features a cabin with a green roof. The water is dark blue, and the surrounding land is covered in dense green trees. A white wing or tail fin of an aircraft is visible in the bottom right corner.

Take a birds - eye view of the property

Click here to view video of property_

Structures include:
main lodge
seasonal lodge/activity center workshop
generator building 8 cabins

More than a map – it's a legacy laid into the land.

circa 1895

Contact

Deb Henderson

Maine Outdoor Properties Team

Realty of Maine

deb@maineoutdoorpropertyteam.com

207-852-7577

Mark Leathers

Maine Outdoor Properties Team

Realty of Maine

mark@maineoutdoorpropertyteam.com

207-356-4388

For additional visuals and in-depth information about the property, please visit Buckhorn Camps .

You can also explore our Facebook and Instagram pages for more photos.

